PART 3291—CONSUMERS DURABLE GOODS

[Interpretation 1 as Amended Oct. 5, 1943, to General Limitation Order L-49]

BEDS, BEDSPRINGS, MATTRESSES AND DUAL SLEEPING EQUIPMENT

Interpretation 1 to General Limitation Order L-49, § 3291.70, is hereby amended to read as follows:

Some question has arisen as to the effect of L-49 upon the repair and renovation of used coil, flat, and fabric bedsprings. Paragraph (a) (5) of L-49 defines a manufacturer as "any person who manufactures or assembles bedding products . . ." and paragraph (a) (6) defines a renovator as "any person who repairs used bedding products."

Persons who obtain new or used parts, or used bedsprings, which they tear down completely and which they thereafter reassemble into bedsprings are engaged in manufacturing operations regardless of the fact that only used parts may be involved. As manufacturers they become subject to weight and quota limitations on bedsprings contained in L-49. Persons who take used bedsprings and remove only worn parts of such springs which they replace with either new parts or parts which have been used in bedsprings other than the specific ones being repaired are renovators. Renovators of coil, flat and fabric bedsprings are not subject to any restrictions contained in L-49.

Issued this 5th day of October 1943.

PART 3291—CONSUMERS DURABLE GOODS

[Interpretation 2 to General Limitation Order L-49]

BEDS, BEDSPRINGS, MATTRESSES AND DUAL SLEEPING EQUIPMENT

The following interpretation is issued with respect to General Limitation Order L-49:

Some question has arisen as to the effect of L-49 [§ 3291.70] upon the repair and renovation of used innerspring mattresses. Paragraph (a) (5) defines a manufacturer as "any person who manufactures or assembles bedding products * * *" and paragraph (a) (6) defines a renovator as "any person who repairs used bedding products."

Persons who obtain new or used innerspring constructions which they use in the assembly of a mattress by combining the innersprings with filling material and covering them with ticking or other covering material are engaged in manufacturing operations, regardless of the fact that only used innerspring constructions may be involved. As manufacturers they become subject to the restrictions on production of mattresses, pads and pillows contained in L-49.

Persons who obtain a completely finished innerspring mattress with innerspring construction, filling and covering which they tear down and renovate by repairing the innerspring construction, re-working the filling material and re-covering where necessary are renovators, and as such are not subject to the restrictions in L-49 on the production of mattresses, pads and pillows. They are, however, subject to the restrictions on renovators of bedding products in the order.

Issued this 5th day of October 1943.

RECORD KEEPING REQUIREMENTS

NOTICE OF OPPORTUNITY TO SHOW CAUSE

In the matter of the amendment to the record keeping regulations, Part 516, issued pursuant to authority contained in section 11 (c) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938.

Notice is hereby given of opportunity to show cause why the following proposed amendment to Title 29, Chapter V, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 516, issued September 15, 1941, pursuant to authority contained in section 11 (c) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, should not be adopted by the Administrator:

§ 516.1 (b)[1] In addition to keeping other records required by the regulations, an employer who makes deductions from the wages of his employees for "board, lodging, or other facilities" (as these terms are used in section 3 (m) of the Act) furnished to them by the employer or by an affiliated person, or who furnishes such "board, lodging, or other facilities" to his employees as an addition to wages, shall maintain and preserve records, substantiating the cost of furnishing each class of facility.[2] Such

[1] This record keeping requirement has been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

[2] Separate records of the cost of each item furnished to an employee need not be kept. The requirement may be met by keeping combined records of the costs incurred in furnishing each class of facility, such as housing, fuel, or merchandise furnished through a company store or commissary. Thus, in the case of an employer who furnishes housing, separate cost records need not be kept for each house. The cost of maintenance and repairs for all the houses may be shown together. Original cost and depreciation records may be kept for groups of houses acquired at the same time. Costs incurred in furnishing similar or closely related facilities, moreover, may be shown in combined records. For example, if joint costs are incurred in furnishing both housing and electricity and the records are not readily separable, the housing and electricity together may be treated as a "class" of facility for record keeping purposes. Merchandise furnished at a company store may be considered as a "class" of facility and the records may show the cost of the opera-
