customs officer is assigned with authority to accept entries of merchandise, to collect duties, and to enforce the various provisions of the customs and navigation laws.

(c) There are 46 customs collection districts of the United States.[2] The following is an alphabetical list of customs collection districts with their numbers and with a list of the ports in each district.[3] The first-named port in each district (in capital letters) is the headquarters port, and the asterisk preceding the name of a port indicates that marine documents may be issued at such port.[4] The districts and ports were created by the President's message of March 3, 1913, by which he communicated to Congress his reorganization of the Customs Service pursuant to the act of August 24, 1912 (Secs. 1, 2, 3, 44 Stat. 1381, as amended, 1382; 5 U. S. C. 281–281b), except that certain changes in such organization have been made by subsequent orders of the President or the Secretary of the Treasury. In the following list the orders issued since March 3, 1913, that affect existing districts or ports are cited in parentheses following the name of the district or port affected.

ing the same and establishing others in their stead, and (3) to change from time to time the location of the headquarters in any customs-collection district as the needs of the service may require.

[2] This does not include the customs collection district of the Virgin Islands which, although under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of the Treasury, has its own customs laws. (See sec. 36, 49 Stat. 1816; 48 U. S. C. 1406i)

[3] In addition to the customs collection districts listed which are within the customs territory of the United States, there is the customs collection district of the Virgin Islands (No. 51), the headquarters port of which is Charlotte Amalie, St. Thomas, and the subports of which are Cruz Bay, Coral Bay, Christiannsted, and Frederiksted.

[4] Marine documents may be issued at Charlotte Amalie, St. Thomas, headquarters port of the customs collection district of the Virgin Islands (No. 51); at Washington, N. C., a customs station in the customs collection district of North Carolina (No. 15); and at Biloxi, Miss., a customs station in the customs collection district of Mobile (No. 19). Marine documents may also be issued at The Commercial Port of Guam, a port of documentation in Guam, under the supervision of the collector of customs at Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii. Although the status of the port of Newark, N. J., was changed by T. D. 53786 to provide that it shall be operated as an integral part of the port of New York, N. Y., in the Customs Collection District of New York (No. 10), marine documents may continue to be issued at that port.
