2863-A

[Executive Order.]

By virtue of authority in me vested as President of the United States and as Commander-in-Chief of the Army, and by virtue of the further authority upon me specifically conferred by "an Act authorizing the President to co-ordinate or consolidate executive bureaus, agencies, and offices, and for other purposes, in the interest of economy and the more efficient concentration of the Government", approved May 20, 1918, and by "an Act to create the Aircraft Board and provide for its maintenance", approved October 1, 1917, I do hereby make and publish the following order:

The duties and powers as a member of the Aircraft Board created by the Act of Congress approved October 1, 1917, and heretofore imposed and conferred upon the Chief Signal Officer of the Army and exercised by Major-General George O. Squier, are hereby re-distributed and transferred from the Chief Signal Officer of the Army to the Director of Military Aeronautics, and further specifically re-distributed and transferred from said Major-General George O. Squier to Major-General William L. Kenly to be and to remain in the said Major-General William L. Kenly for such period of time as he shall be, and continue to be, Director of Military Aeronautics; and upon the assumption of his duties as a member of said Aircraft Board by the said Major-General William L. Kenly, the tenure of office of the said Major-General George O. Squier as a member of said Aircraft Board shall thereupon discontinue and terminate.

WOODROW WILSON

THE WHITE HOUSE,
May 21, 1918.
