Temporary
3096

Executive Order.

Richard R. McMahon may be appointed as law clerk, $2000 per annum, Office of the Comptroller of the Treasury, without examination under the civil service rules. Mr. McMahon had nine years' experience in that Office from 1880 to 1889. He was appointed by President Cleveland second deputy comptroller in 1885. He has since practiced law especially before the Court of Claims on a class of cases requiring knowledge of Treasury Department procedure and Comptroller's decisions, and the Comptroller states that by reason of these facts and the loss of a considerable number of trained men by assignment in France his services are desired.

The Civil Service Commission concurs in recommending the Order.
