Executive Order

William A. Marshall may be reinstated to an appropriate position in the General Accounting Office without regard to the time limit on reinstatement under the civil service rules.

Mr. Marshall was employed in the Treasury Department and in the General Accounting Office for approximately three years as a messenger, having been discontinued December 31, 1922, on account of failing health. He is now physically fit to resume work and has a wife and six small children to support.

This order is recommended by the Comptroller General of the United States, who states that Mr. Marshall was faithful, efficient, and deserving and his conduct exemplary at all times. The Civil Service Commission concurs.
