Executive Order

Mrs. Martha A. Davis may be appointed to an appropriate position in the Government service without regard to the civil service rules.

Mrs. Davis is the widow of Orin Davis who at the time of his death, September 24, 1928, had faithfully served the Government as a railway postal clerk and as tariff clerk for the Interstate Commerce Commission for more than thirty years. His death left her without income or adequate means of support.

The Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission states that it is not the policy of that Commission to ask for individual Executive orders, but he interposes no objection in the case of Mrs. Davis. The Civil Service Commission can not recommend this order, its recommendations for waivers of the rules being limited to those cases where the needs of the service can not be met under the procedure under the rules.

For charity.
